

Abstract

The invention provides cells useful to propagate influenza virus mutants having reduced sialidase activity.